Training Outline	1) Introduction - Photography and the Why is there a need to pose kids 2) Talk about how the toddler photography is different from newborn photography and the challenges faced while taking toddler pictures 3) Take them through tips/props on how to pose toddlers 4) check understanding/ Evaluation Tips to find success 1) Get down to the kids level one said you are at the other level. Clicking pictures is easier and you'll get the perfect expression. Also clicking at I level is much better than clicking from above Show pictures of a toddle captured from eye level vs above 2)Talk to your toddler about what they like or what they are looking forward to or sing their favorite nursery rhyme. my kiddo loves wheels on the bus, and I kept using that throughout 3)Allow the kids to play with props/toys. having a noisy toy is also a very nice trick to get these kids to giggle and smile. Show the pictures with toddler and the milk bottle 4)Just like treats are for dogs, snacks for kids is a sure way to get them to cooperate. Show the pictures of toddler with snacks 5) Capturing a toddler while doing what they love in their environment is the best and the easiest trick to get the best pictures. Show the pictures of toddler in the pond/ toddler running in the grass Close the lesson with what you have learnt/ Summary and give a closing statement At the end all we want is for the kids and us to have fun. All kids may not cooperate, in that case close for the day and try again later. Final Evaluation picture do's and donts angle's dos and donts select all props that are helpful
